

BBC School Report

All around the United Kingdom children have had the chance to be a real BBC reporter and have the privilege of having their own articles published on the BBC website.

We asked a couple of BBC school reporters about their work and experience.

Saleem from Burlington Danes Academy, 7B, said: 'I am very grateful for this opportunity to experience what it would be like to be a real journalist and have the freedom to express myself.'

Saleem wrote articles about the Burlington Danes' House project, an upcoming documentary series about students building a house together on the school site, as well as the success of Comic Relief.

We also talked to the head teacher of Burlington Danes Academy, Dame Sally Coates.

She said: 'It's a great idea because it helps students develop their journalistic skills as well as their English and leadership skills.'

She continued: 'It is very useful because when you write your CV you will have a chance to say that you have had this experience.'

By Ilaha Akhbar and Marwa Roomi

Dame Sally, Head teacher at Burlington Danes Academy

