

Do footballers deserve the money they get?

I asked two of my neighbours about do footballers deserve the money they get. This is what they said:

'I think they deserve the money they get but should be deducted on some of the things they o wrong. For example when Ballotelli disrespected the manager'

Neighbour 2:

'I think they don't deserve the money they get paid because getting paid one hundred thousand pounds is ridiculous. One player even gets paid 250,000 pounds! Quite a lot are disrespectful and rude.'

In my observation I think that they deserve the money they get but (like what the first neighbour said) they should be deducted if they are disrespectful racist etc.